Dear Susan,

It's only two weeks since I moved to this city but I need some more time to get adapted. I don't have a close friend, yet. I wish you were here. I'm afraid I need to make changes in my lifestyle. I should learn to be patient with things and people. The worst things are traffic and weather here. It's terrible when I get stuck in traffic in rush hours. At those times, I say, I wish I could fly. It's often rainy here. If only it didn't rain this often. It's better than lack of rain, though. I do not go out in the evening. I do housework, read books and watch the news or movies. Unfortunately, sad items of news are more than good ones these days. There is a lot of violence all around the world. Like anyone who has common sense, I wish all wars came to an end. I'm optimistic, though. Things will get better. As the saying by Leo Tolstoy goes, "The two most powerful warriors are patience and time", I have to show endurance. I must be part of this city and a new lifestyle for a better career. I wish hard times passed quickly and I lived together with my beloved ones in my hometown again. I'll write again soon. I feel lucky to have you as my best friend. Hugs, Mary
